

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for recording operating software program scheduling information while the operating software is executing are described. The scheduling information is captured without requiring additional hardware or software. A recording mechanism is compiled, integrated with and comprises a 5 part of the operating software.

2011-09-28